ATP is a leading quarterly journal of critical, normative, and theoretical dialogue in public administration. ATP publishes innovative, rigorous scholarship that critically examines emerging and enduring topics in public administration theory; explores the intersection of public administration and broader social, economic, cultural, political, and historical issues; introduces to the field new theories, frameworks, and literatures that illuminate matters of public administration; develops challenging, thought-provoking normative, ethical, and philosophical arguments about the field; or otherwise seeks to explore and possibly transcend the limits of existing public administration theory and practice.

“Whether many realize it or not, we are living in a ‘golden age’ of American Public Administration scholarship. ATP deserves a share of the credit for stimulating this new wave of creative thinking throughout our field. I personally look forward to reading each issue.”

—Richard Stillman, University of Colorado, Denver, and Editor, Public Administration Review

ADVANCES IN MANAGEMENT INFORMATION SYSTEMS

Editor-in-Chief: Vladimir Zwass, Fairleigh Dickinson University

www.mesharpe.com/amis.htm

Continuing the tradition of the Journal of Management Information Systems, this strictly refereed series of research volumes represents the field in all its diversity. Featuring brand new material specifically written for this series, each volume presents both the knowledge about organizational information systems and the methods for creating new knowledge in the discipline. To further the domain's continuing development, AMIS is designed to serve researchers as well as practitioners. AMIS publishes several volumes each year, all thoroughly edited by the leading authorities in the various sub-fields of IS.

"An impressively wide-ranging and in-depth series of volumes that are a valuable asset to the IS community." —William R. King, University of Pittsburgh

"While each volume makes a significant contribution to our understanding in a single area, the collection provides a coherent and integrated treatment of this important emerging field." —Eric K. Clemons, University of Pennsylvania

"Stay current and be knowledgeable in the constantly revolutionizing information world with this brilliant series!" —Andrew B. Whinston, University of Texas

"AMIS makes a major contribution to the Information Systems discipline. The editor and advisory board are some of the top scholars in the field, and each topical volume contains outstanding articles by leading MIS experts."

—Bill Brunger,

Former Senior Vice President, Network, Continental Airlines

ANTHROPOLOGY & ARCHEOLOGY OF EURASIA

Editor: Marjorie Mandelstam Balzer, Georgetown University

AAE presents scholarship from Russia, Siberia, the Caucasus, and Central Asia, the vast region that stretches from the Baltic to the Black Sea and from Lake Baikal to the Bering Strait. Each thematic issue, with a substantive introduction to the topic by the editor, features expertly translated and annotated manuscripts, articles, and book excerpts reporting fieldwork from every part of the region and theoretical studies on topics of special interest.

“AAE is an essential source for anyone interested in the evolution of post-Soviet societies. Nowhere else can one find information so carefully selected and so usefully presented by the editor as in this quarterly. Marjorie Mandelstam Balzer’s introductions to each issue are invaluable.”

—Paul A. Goble, Windows on Eurasia

“The selection of material for inclusion is the highest quality Russian scholarship in the areas of archeology, anthropology, and ethnography. Recommended as an important purchase for academic and special libraries with an interest in anthropology, archeology, and ethnology.”

CHALLENGE

The Magazine of Economic Affairs

Editor: Jeff Madrick, M.E. Sharpe, INC.
www.challengemagazine.com

This vital journal gives its readers an independent perspective on economic issues they simply can't get anywhere else. Published six times a year, Challenge presents, in plain English, studies and analyses of the pressing economic problems that we face today; interviews with the most influential (and often controversial) economic and political leaders of our time; book reviews of important works; and compelling policy prescriptions for today's urgent economic issues. For down-to-earth information on the real economic world we live in, Challenge has no substitute.

"Provides an array of insightful and eclectic analyses of current critical economic issues. No other economic publication can match its combination of relevance, readability, and solid reasoning."

—Lawrence Mishel, President, Economic Policy Institute

"Always stimulating, and never boring. Few journals combine relevance with in-depth analysis as it does."

—Dani Rodrik, Harvard University

"Challenge is the one publication on economic matters that succeeds in being both intellectually rigorous and completely readable. Each issue is crisp, relevant, and thought provoking."

—Richard Leone, President, Century Foundation

"Recommended for high school, public, academic, and government libraries."

—Magazines for Libraries

CHINESE EDUCATION & SOCIETY

Co-Editors: Stanley Rosen, University of Southern California
Gerard A. Postiglione, University of Hong Kong

How is China's vast population being educated in the home, the school, and the workplace? Chinese Education and Society is essential for insight into the latest Chinese thinking on educational policy and practice, educational reform and development, pedagogical theory and methods, colleges and universities, schools and families, as well as the education for diverse social groups across gender and youth, urban and rural, mainstream and minorities. It features unabridged translations of the most important articles in the field from Chinese sources, including scholarly journals and collections of articles published in book form. It also provides refereed research on specific themes.

"Chinese Education and Society provides timely access to insightful research and thinking about education in China. It provides valuable help in understanding one of the most important systems in the world."

CHINESE LAW & GOVERNMENT

Editor: James Tong, University of California at Los Angeles

Chinese Law & Government offers a rare window on the inner workings of Chinese politics and governance through careful selection, translation, and annotation of primary documents, analytical studies, and other authoritative sources. The materials translated for publication in the journal's thematic issues and series may be laws, regulations, court records, policy directives, and published or unpublished, official or scholarly reports and analyses of critical questions. Insight into the significance of the topic and the content of each issue is provided in a substantive introduction by the editor or expert guest editor.

“Critically important... for any research library with an interest in Chinese affairs.”
—Magazines for Libraries

“The translations are accurate, free of any tampering or bias. The selection seems objective, and an effort is made to devote a given issue to a central problem. The emphasis is on translation of material which has lasting value for research.”
—Library Journal

CHINESE STUDIES IN HISTORY

Editor: Q. Edward Wang, Rowan University

Editor Emerita: Li Yu-ning, St. John's University

Chinese Studies in History makes noteworthy works and important trends of historical study in the Chinese-speaking world available to English-language readers. Thematic issues present original papers or articles from academic journals and anthologies that have been selected for translation because of their excellence, interest, and contribution to scholarship on the topic. Topical coverage ranges over all periods and subfields of Chinese and East Asian history as well as more general theoretical and historiographical questions of interest to historians of many specialties. Each issue includes a substantive introduction by the editor or specialist guest editor.

CONTEMPORARY CHINESE THOUGHT

Editor: Carine Defoort, Katholieke Universiteit Leuven

This wide-ranging journal is essential reading for anyone who wants to understand the diverse themes and influences that shape Chinese thought today. It features translations of the most current and influential Chinese writings on all aspects of philosophical endeavor, from theoretical essays on systems to studies of China's cultural and religious development, from interpretations of the Chinese classics to exegeses on Marxist thought.

"To any student of Chinese thought, traditional or contemporary, this periodical is probably the best English source for a good understanding of subjects discussed by Chinese Marxist philosophers today."

—Charles Wei-hsun Fu, Temple University

EASTERN EUROPEAN ECONOMICS

Editor: Josef Brada, Arizona State University

Eastern European Economics publishes original research on the newly emerging economies of Central and Eastern Europe, with coverage of the ongoing processes of transition to market economics in different countries, their integration into the broader European and global economies, and the ramifications of the 2008-09 financial crisis. An introduction by the journal's editor adds context and expert insights on the articles presented in each issue.

“Articles ... are authored by renowned scholars from various Eastern European countries and are well documented ... in excellent English, making them interesting and enlightening to those professionally concerned with this field. Highly recommended for acquisitions by academic and special libraries with programs covering Eastern European economics and business.”

EUROPEAN EDUCATION

Issues and Studies

Now published in association with the Comparative Education Society in Europe (CESE)

Editors: Iveta Silova, Lehigh University, and Noah W. Sobe, Loyola University

Book Review Editor: Kara D. Brown, University of South Carolina

Associate Editor: William C. Brehm, Lehigh University

European Education is an international peer-reviewed journal, which is devoted to original inquiries and dialogue on education across the member states of the Council of Europe. The journal features articles on education in individual member states as well as the impact of European education initiatives globally. The journal especially encourages theoretical and empirical studies, interdisciplinary perspectives, and critical examination of the impact of political, economic, and social forces on education.

“Comparative education has always emphasized learning from the experience of others, and Europe has provided the rest of the world with educational models from which others can borrow. European Education is an excellent facilitator of that process and one that performs its role with an always critical eye.”

—Erwin H. Epstein, Loyola University of Chicago, Past Editor of the Comparative Education Review

INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF POLITICAL ECONOMY

Editor: Mario Seccareccia, University of Ottawa

International Journal of Political Economy is an international peer-reviewed journal that publishes scholarly research in all traditions of political economy. The journal welcomes individual contributions from a critical perspective, as well as suggestions for special thematic issues in all fields of political economy internationally.

"The International Journal of Political Economy is an important, timely, and influential journal."

– James K. Galbraith,
The University of Texas at Austin

"IJPE is perhaps the most stimulating and venturesome economics journal anywhere. It is one of the few that integrates first rate economic theory and empirical work on questions of urgent concern in the real world. Its international focus and ability to draw leading researchers from many countries are unique."

–Thomas Ferguson,
University of Massachusetts at Boston

THE JAPANESE ECONOMY

Editor: David J. Flath, Osaka University, Institute of Social and Economic Research

Featuring political-economic analysis in addition to more traditional econometric analysis, The Japanese Economy seeks to bridge disciplinary divides. It brings together the expertise of economists and other social scientists who conduct research on the world's second largest economy to illuminate the practical implications of current developments and policies for economic performance and economic life in Japan.

The Journal of Advertising is the premier academic publication covering significant intellectual development pertaining to advertising theories and their relationship with practice. The goal of the Journal is to provide a public forum that reflects the current understanding of advertising as a process of communication, its role in the changing environment, and the relationships between these and other components of the advertising business and practice.

"Provides an important publication outlet for papers in the specialization of advertising. Of the many academic journals with a primary focus on advertising theory and research, JOA is by far the most widely respected and read." – David W. Stewart, University of California, Riverside

"JOA is the world's leading academic journal exclusively devoted to the field of advertising." – Roland T. Rust, University of Maryland

JOURNAL OF PERSONAL SELLING & SALES MANAGEMENT

Editor: Michael Aherne, University of Houston
Associate Editor: Manfred Krafft, University of Muenster, Germany

As the only scholarly research-based journal in its field, JPSSM seeks to advance both the theory and practice of personal selling and sales management. It provides a forum for the exchange of the latest ideas and findings among sales executives, educators, researchers, trainers, and students. For almost 30 years JPSSM has offered its readers high-quality research and innovative conceptual work that spans an impressive array of topics—motivation, performance, evaluation, team selling, national account management, and more. In addition to feature articles by leaders in the field, the journal offers a widely used selling and sales management abstracts section, drawn from other top marketing journals. Emerging topics are addressed through periodic special issues devoted to such cutting-edge issues as CRM and sales force ethics.

“I think every academic who teaches and does research in the areas of selling and sales management should read every issue of JPSSM. It is the primary outlet for scholars who are doing cutting edge research in sales and sales management.”
—Rosann Spiro, Indiana University

JPSSM is owned by the Pi Sigma Epsilon National Educational Foundation.

JOURNAL OF POST KEYNESIAN ECONOMICS

Founding Co-Editors: Sidney Weintraub (1914-1983)
Paul Davidson, New School University
Founding Chairman: J.K. Galbraith (1908-2006)

JPKE is a scholarly journal of innovative theoretical and empirical work that sheds fresh light on contemporary economic problems. It is committed to the principle that cumulative development of economic theory is only possible when the theory is continuously subjected to scrutiny in terms of its ability both to explain the real world and to provide a reliable guide to public policy.

“The topics of articles in this journal pose answers to troublesome questions. ... This journal is important because of the subject matter it covers.”

JOURNAL OF RUSSIAN & EAST EUROPEAN PSYCHOLOGY

Editor: Pentti Hakkarainen, University of Oulu, Kajaani, Finland
Editor Emeritus: Michael Cole, University of California, San Diego

Journal of Russian and East European Psychology publishes thematic issues with translations of original submissions as well as articles published in scholarly journals on a variety of topics from child development to creativity to memory to post-traumatic stress. Another important editorial mission of the journal is the publication of work by the greats—Bekhterev, Bernstein, Bozhovich, Brushlinskii, Elkonin, Leontiev, Luria, Puzyrei, Shpet, Uznadze, Vygotsky, Zaporozhets, Zinchenko, Zuckerman—in excellent translations with helpful bibliographic information, contributions by peers and protégés, and introductions by guest editors.

“The translations are in excellent English; articles are well documented. ... This is another of the very valuable journals published by M.E. Sharpe, and it is recommended for academic and research libraries.”

MARKETING EDUCATION REVIEW

The Journal for the Scholarship of Teaching in Marketing Education

Editor: K. Douglas Hoffman, Colorado State University

Associate Editor: Kevin J. Shanahan, Mississippi State University

The focus of Marketing Education Review is to promote innovative approaches to curricular development, course content and delivery systems, student learning, career development and other issues which are important to marketing faculty. MER is published three times a year (spring, summer, fall) with a special issue in the spring devoted to "Teaching Innovations in Marketing." Now published by M.E. Sharpe, MER is available online for the first time.

"MER is both timely and timeless—when we have decisions to make regarding curriculum, course design, and other such areas, we turn to MER. The contributors always deliver insight into whatever the decision is." —Jeff Tanner, Baylor University

"In my opinion, the mission of MER is at the heart of what is increasingly recognized both as what matters to Marketing students as well as what should matter (and increasingly IS of concern) to universities' stakeholders."

—Karen C. Stone, Southern New Hampshire University

"MER is filled with time-tested and research-based teaching tools, critical pedagogy for a technological world, and innovative insights from respected scholars—all of which motivate instructors toward teaching and learning excellence."

—Debbie M. Thorne, Texas State University-San Marcos

MER is sponsored by:

PROBLEMS OF POST-COMMUNISM

Editor: Dmitry P. Gorenburg, Harvard University
Associate Editor: Ronald H. Linden, University of Pittsburgh
Managing Editor: Ann E. Robertson, NCEEER

www.problemsofpostcommunism.com

The post-communist countries are the most rapidly changing societies of Europe and Asia. For insight into this twenty-first century revolution, there is no better source than Problems of Post-Communism. Emphasis is placed on timely research covering current economic, political, security, and international developments and trends in Russia and China, Central Europe and Central Asia, Latin America, and Southeast Asia. Clarity and readability make the articles fully accessible to researchers, policy makers, and students alike.

"PPC is an unparalleled teaching tool. Its articles, written by some of our best experts in the field, are timely, insightful, and clear. Most important... has been the fact that these articles are presented in a style that is accessible to my students."

—Philip G. Roeder, University of California, San Diego

"One of the most relevant and readable foreign affairs journals for both policymakers and scholars following the ongoing transitions in Central and Eastern Europe and Eurasia."

—Ken Roberts,
Bureau of Intelligence and Research, U.S. Department of State

Governance is changing rapidly, and change brings compelling ethical challenges. Public Integrity is the foremost journal on ethics and leadership in all aspects of modern public service. Written for both scholars and practitioners as well as concerned citizens, its driving force is the notion of integrity that is so basic a part of democratic life. The journal features refereed articles, case studies, exemplar profiles, field reports, commentaries, and book reviews on a broad spectrum of ethical concerns in local, state, national, and international affairs.

“A delight to read for scholars and practitioners who want to stay current on ethical issues and research so vital to all aspects of modern public administration.”

—Richard Stillman,
University of Colorado at Denver

“Should be essential reading not only for academics and government officials but also for citizens concerned about the future of democracy around the world.”

—Frederick M. Hermann,
NJ Election Law Enforcement Commission

PPMR is a scholarly forum that addresses a broad range of factors influencing the performance of public and nonprofit organizations and agencies. Its objectives are to facilitate the development of innovative techniques and encourage a wider application of those already established; stimulate research and critical thinking about the relationship between public and private management theories; present integrated analyses of theories, concepts, strategies and techniques dealing with productivity, measurement and related questions of performance improvement; and provide a forum for practitioner-academic exchange. Continuing themes include managing for productivity, measuring and evaluating performance, improving budget strategies, managing human resources, building partnerships, and applying new technologies.

“Given today’s current political and economic climate PPMR has never been more relevant. ...The absolute go-to-resource.”

—Dr. Alan R. Shark, Executive Director, Public Technology Institute

PPMR is now available in the JSTOR archive as part of the Arts & Sciences IV Collection.

RUSSIAN EDUCATION & SOCIETY

Editor: Anthony Jones, Northeastern University

The editor of Russian Education and Society selects material for translation from the Russian-language professional literature on education and socialization. The materials surveyed cover preschool, primary, secondary, vocational, and higher education; curricula and methods; and socialization issues related to family life, ethnic and religious identity formation, youth culture, addiction and other behavioral and health problems; and professional training and employment. The scope of the journal extends beyond Russia proper to provide coverage of all the former Soviet states as well as international educational issues.

“Translations are in excellent English. Recommended for academic and research libraries, particularly for those with an active department of education.”

RUSSIAN POLITICS & LAW

Editor: Dmitry P. Gorenburg, Harvard University

This bimonthly journal publishes thematic issues featuring translations of some of the most important political science articles by authors working in the Soviet successor states. Selections are drawn from both print and electronic sources, as well as from previously unpublished work. The materials selected include both articles examining the politics of the region and theoretical works of interest to the field as a whole. Each issue includes a substantive introduction to the theme by the chief editor or a guest editor who is an expert on the issue's theme.

"Recommended as an important purchase for special, academic, and research libraries."

STATUTES AND DECISIONS

The Laws of the USSR and Its Successor States

Editor: Alexei Trochev, School of Social Sciences and Humanities, Nazarbayev University

Statutes and Decisions: The Laws of the USSR and Its Successor States documents the evolving legal regimes of the post-Soviet states. Unlike a database, the journal publishes thematic series providing comprehensive coverage of a body of law or of legal or judicial practice in high-quality translations with expert introductions. Current series (2009-2011) deal with topics in Ukrainian constitutional law, judicial practice, and the Supreme Court. Volume 43 (2008) included two issues on the Russian Federation Law on Extremist Activity (1-2) and four issues on professional ethics for attorneys in Russia (3-6). Past volumes have covered Legal Regulation of NGOs (42, 1-2); the Code of the Russian Federation on Administrative Violations (42, 3-6); the Procuracy (41, 1-2); Local Government (41, 3-6); and Antiterrorism Legislation in the CIS (40, 5-6).

“A highly useful resource for students and all persons interested in the laws and court decisions of the Russian Federation. The quality of translation is superlative.”
—Peter Solomon, University of Toronto

“A unique documentary source chronicling legislation in virtually all fields of social, economic, and administrative life, as well as developments in... post-Soviet legal theory. This journal is recommended primarily for law libraries, but will also be a valuable acquisition for academic and research libraries with programs in Eastern European studies.”

—Magazines for Libraries

“The definitive source for analysis and reliable translation of the building blocks of a new legal regime.”
